A MESSAGE FROM DIRECTOR GENERAL

To pen a message for annual report for OSAIL is to look into the rear view mirror at the year passed by. It is a sheer joy to present 6th edition of the same. Apart from the grand Sci-Tech, Socio-Cultural & Sports Fest; what I really admire are the events which have created their own niche. To mention the few are Spotlight – a talent show organized for the supporting staff of PDPU, PDPU Haat – A charity flea market, Shamiana – a short films screening event etc.

The most notable initiative for the year 2018-19 was Tints + Shades – an art exhibition by students of engineering, science, humanities and management at the reputed art gallery in the city of Ahmedabad. Without giving more spoilers on it, I would want you to browse through the report to learn about how learning is extended beyond classrooms through these activities.

I congratulate to Office of SAIL team, faculty mentors and to all the students who encourage students to get more involved in campus life and take leadership to ensure vibrancy of the campus.

Dr. C. Gopalkrishnan

Director General

Pandit Deendayal Petroleum University

A MESSAGE FROM DEAN, STUDENTS' AFFAIRS

The Students' Affairs Office coordinates all aspects of the extra curricular and co-curricular activities on campus. Our goal is to provide a high quality experience to our students that not only complements, but also enhances the learning that takes place in classrooms. We promote and facilitate this growth through events, programs, facilities, resources and support for each student.

Each member of our team contributes to the physical, emotional, intellectual and social development of the students on campus. My team members take great pride in working as collaborative partners with our students.

Our student clubs are the core of the student activities. They offer a variety of activities outside the classroom, including professional workshops, career-related events, social events and sports. These initiatives enhance the student experience and provide forums for students to foster life-long relationships, to take advantage of networking opportunities, and to create strong bonding. “At the onset of my term, I was a tad bit anxious, but also eager to take my club further. Over the year, I learnt how to manage responsibilities, take up the mantle of leadership and organise events along with my team, to continue the legacy of Jharokha. Throughout this, I made many mistakes, and was often confused as to how to proceed. However, I was always supported by OSAIL- the Office of Student Activities, Involvement and Leadership and the advisors of Jharokha, as well as my team. I grew as a person, a student and a literature enthusiast as I came to know of various facets of literature and management. From organising guest lectures to our bi-annual poetry recitation competition Kavyanjali, and the publication of the book Synergy with Energy, the entire year, has truly been a wonderful experience. I hope to carry all that I learnt further ahead in my future endeavours. I am utterly grateful to OSAIL and Jharokha for this giving me this opportunity.”

“My tenure as the president of the fashion club of our college taught me a lot of valuable lessons and the whole experience was an enriching one. To balance club activities simultaneously with my academic routine exposed me to the much sought after quality known as multitasking. Organising events, networking with people of my college as well as other colleges, coordinating the members of the club and supervising their allotted tasks were some of the facets of my role as the president. I learnt the importance of teamwork, I managed to deal with unforeseeable circumstances by changing plans at the eleventh hour and most importantly I met people whose insights changed my perspective towards life for the better. The entire tenure filled me with a zeal to get better at my job every day and the highlight of my presidential role was my interactions with the people at the SAIL office and the collaboration which I managed to bring to fruition. The above mentioned aspects filled me with a sense of competence which established me as a person who can get the work done even if things go south. That was my time.”

“This was a new club, just started in 2018 with the basic idea in mind of providing a platform for readers to talk about a book they had collectively read. Thus, began The Next Page, PDPU's book club. Engagement wasn't entirely forthcoming and there were quite a few hiccups, but eventually my team and I were able to rethink and restructure our events to ones that went beyond merely a discussion. We extended to book hunts, cover designing, trivia events and even book-to-movie nights. Overall, it has been an enriching year, interacting and getting to know the Reader community at our university and it is my sincere hope that coming batches find something to cherish in every event.”

“My experience with South Block was a mixed bag of feelings. It was awesome to see a community being built around the discussions that we organize. This community was diverse, interactive and many of us are/will remain in touch after we graduate. However, managing all the behind the scenes thing while juggling academics has been tough. Getting Shri P. Sainath for a guest lecture was definitely the highlight of the year. Despite the hardships, it has been a fun, communal and rewarding experience.

But getting things done in such chaos and getting along with people to complete a puzzle you never would have alone. It sure was a fruitful experience.”

Dr. Sanjay Kumar Pradhan

“During my tenure with Mind Ripple, the quizzing club of Pandit Deendayal Petroleum University, I got the responsibility of being the club president in my third year. The responsibilities associated not only included running the club, but also conducting the prestigious PDPU Open Quiz- the biggest quiz in the Western circuit, and TEDxPDPU. Handling a team of over thirty members, the biggest learning that came out of it was the daunting task of managing varied opinions and bringing everyone on the same page. It definitely did take time for me to get accustomed with the new responsibility, but over time, I believe I was able to evolve and do my part in helping the club grow as a whole. Treating everyone as equals and maintaining efficient communication was the key to the club growing as a whole, and this wouldn't have been possible without it's cooperative members and OSAIL.”

“Step Up is a new club and was founded by me and my team. Initially as a leader, I had to find people who may have some knowledge about fitness and contribute in the club in some or the other manner and that's how we formed our team. We got a very warm response from the students as through hard work and consistency, the team maintained sweet relations with our members and other people joining us. We were able to make our events fun and knowledgeable and the participants loved all of the events. Our main focus was daily workout sessions which turned out to be a huge success and today STEP UP as a club has helped many people to make fitness the part of their lifestyle and achieve their fitness goals. We did face some challenges too. As it was the club's first year, it was challenging to get people to know about our activities and spread awareness. Personally, this is the best thing happened to me in my college life. Building up a club and making it known for its fun element and effective results felt like raising a new company. I had to work with and interact with all kinds of people which levelled up my communication skills and leadership. It feels good to make a positive impact in people's life and all these things were only possible through the club's hard working committee members and SAIL's support.”

The Gymnastics team of PDPU took over the stage next, pulling off stunts with great ease and flexibility. The dignitaries were then called forward for the lighting of the torch, an integral part of the whole ceremony. The trophy revelation was nothing short of spectacular. The guest of honour, Mr. Parthiv Patel glorified sports and the undying sportsman spirit. He was impressed with the well-maintained discipline of the students of PDPU.

TINTS + SHADES - ART EXHIBITION BY PDPU STUDENTS

In color theory, a tint is a mixture of a color with white, which reduces darkness, while a shade is a mixture with black, which increases darkness.

Tints and Shades are art terminology for the lighter and darker variations of a single color. As its name suggests, the artists had expressed their emotions, fantasy or concerned in form of painting using a single color. These 32 artists are aspiring Engineers, Entrepreneurs, policy makers or educationists who pushed their boundaries and tried to break into the world of colors and lines without any formal training in art. They put up an art exhibition, by stealing time from their day long classes, submissions, sports practice to create beautiful paintings. The exhibition was organized by OSAIL and Rang - The Fine Arts Club from 22nd to 24th February, 2019 at Kanoria Centre for Arts. The Exhibition was graced by Our Chief Guest - Shri Nabibaksh Mansoori, renowned painter and Guest of Honor - Shri Revanta Sarabhai, eminent dancer & actor. The exhibition was a proud moment for PDPU.

UMANG – BRINGING JOY TO THE GOVT. SCHOOL OF VALAD

The team Umang believes creativity is as important as Literacy. Thus the project intends to aid the govt. school students to become responsible citizens who contribute their share to the society. At the same time, wishes team Umang to develop into a bigger and stronger extended family of teachers and students. Schools are where strong foundations are built. There is a need for new IDEAS to percolate into the running of schools. Government schools face huge challenges in the form of student dropouts, lack of facilities, and staff shortage among others. Even when such challenges are not so imposing, teachers are expected to fulfill a range of duties other than teaching the students. It is thus inferred that government schools could use help in the form of volunteers who could aid and assist the teaching process. Umang strives to bridge any gap in the current system of education and assist the process. The already existing formal setup in the form of government school will provide an easier environment. The curriculum focuses on social topics like environment, gender issues, agriculture, etc., through the medium of storytelling and experiential learning modules. The curriculum is designed in a manner, which is sensitive to the culture and language without being bound by any shortcomings. The effort is to enable the volunteers to form lasting value based bonds with the students. This helps not only the students of PDPU in their own development but also the students of the school. Both sets of students learn through one another and grow as individuals in a collective manner.

Through planned interventions Umang tries to inculcate the behavior change in the kids towards a positive environment as they are the building blocks of our society and if their wild energy can be channelized towards a constructive interference, they can be the driving agents with the ability to bring the change we all are seeking for.

OSAIL CONVEYS ITS HEARTFELT THANKS TO...

“As a Chief Campus Manager of Pandit Deendayal Petroleum University, I see a lot of activities happening around the campus each day. Not a single day pass by where students seek permission to conduct one or the other event. We at Facility Management Department strive to give best facilities and support to students possible for all these events. We really appreciate the activities going around and look forward to provide students with much more support and facilities which we are currently providing. We will also like students to plan their events well in advance, so that we can facilitate them more.”

“I believe that quality education is incomplete if due importance is not given to social cultural clubs and sports activities. These are experiential learning, which plays a major role for students in moving out of their comfort zone and try to build their career & personality. These activities enable students to engage in physical workouts, reduces the stress, interact with diversified talents, gives an option to have a career in sports, helps them to understand the team building skills, tests their emotional strength and many more. Initiatives taken by PDPU and SAIL team for student activities on campus is commendable. I would like to see the campus always cheerful and active.”

This initiative taken by the university and OSAIL gives opportunities to the students for learning experiences and help them develop themselves in every aspect for a successful future. The university has seen various remarkable events throughout the year. The exhibitions, events and other extracurricular activities organized by the clubs and organizations have held out to their highest job. I anticipate the future of the office is of student driven where the students themselves lead the activities to the greater being. The effort put by the University, OSAIL and the Student Community is commendable and I look forward for many more of such events and activities that will bring in the best for the university and the people.”

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of understanding the local context in which a project is implemented. This involves conducting a thorough assessment of the social, cultural, and economic conditions of the community. Only by understanding these factors can a project be designed to be effective and sustainable.

The second part of the paper focuses on the role of community participation in the development process. It argues that communities should not be passive recipients of aid but active participants in their own development. This requires building trust and capacity within the community, as well as ensuring that they have a say in the decisions that affect them.

The third part of the paper examines the challenges of implementing community-based development projects. These challenges include limited resources, lack of technical expertise, and resistance to change. However, these challenges can be overcome through careful planning, strong leadership, and a commitment to the principles of community participation.

In conclusion, the paper emphasizes that successful development projects are those that are rooted in the local context and involve the active participation of the community. By following these principles, development workers can help to create a more equitable and sustainable world.
